

Hydra-Sports Vector 2796-2800 Center Console

2000-05

A serious fishing boat with tremendous eye appeal, the Hydra-Sports Vector 2796 (called the Vector 2800 in 2003-05) is a high-end center console able to hold her own against the best boats in her class. Heavily built on a Kevlar-reinforced hull, the Vector's large fuel capacity allows her to range further offshore than many boats this size. While the forward-seating layout is perfect for day cruising with family and friends, the real strengths of the 2796/2800 are focused on fishing. Wide walkways make getting around the console easy and secure, and the Vector's uncluttered cockpit provides plenty of space for several anglers to work without bumping elbows. Standard fishing features include a 50-gallon transom livewell, leaning post with rod holders, bait prep station with sink and cutting board, tackle storage drawers, two insulated fish boxes, horizontal rod holders, and three transom-mounted rod holders. The console houses a walk-in head with electric toilet and shower. Recessed bow rails and pop-up cleats are great features, and the fold-way stern seat comes in handy when guests are aboard. Fit and finish is well above average. Twin Yamaha 225hp outboards top out at 40-45 knots.
